Langley Water Boil Advisory Rescinded Our Water Is Safe To Drink

After testing and with the Concurrence of the Washington State Department of Health, the City of Langley's Water has been determined to be Safe to Drink.

The action to issue the Boil Advisory was based upon the results from one test point, The test results today verified that the e Coli was confined to that one point and that the overall system was not contaminated.

The Drinking Water Warning issued on July 9, 2020 has been rescinded.

The City of langley will continue to work to deliver safe water to it's residents and to provide for testing to assure its purity.
